9 A.M. Ceremony Today Joins
Miss Vivian Rettig R. L. Senff.

A 9 O'CLOCK wedding this morning joined Miss Vivian Rettig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rettig of 314 Chestnut street, and Richard L. Senff, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Senff of Lancaster. Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church, read the double ring service before close relatives at the parsonage at 225 South High street.

The bride chose for her wedding a suit of Skipper blue feather-weight wool. The jacket, fitted at the waist and flaring in a tunic, was fastened with odd-shaped buttons and had a pointed collar of lapin. The skirt flared slightly. Completing her costume, she wore a blue lace blouse, blond kid gloves and purse, and slippers of dark blue kid trimmed with small cut steel head bows. She wore a corsage of bride's roses and baby breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Senff of Marion, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were the bride attendants. Mrs. Senff was in black crepe figured with green, with a black hat of straw.

Following the wedding, a breakfast was served at 10:30 o'clock at the Rettig home, with covers placed for the bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Rettig, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Senff, Mr. and Mrs. James Morton and Miss Isabelle Bishop, the latter of Lexington. Orchid and green, the bride's colors, were carried out in the table appointments, with tall green tapers at either side of a centerpiece of spring flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Senff left immediately for a motor trip to Lancaster, where they will visit with her parents and later will go to Chicago. They expect to return to Marion Sunday, and they will be at home in apartment 3 at 229 East Church street.

Mrs. Senff graduated in 1928 from Harding High school. She is a member of Gamma Mu chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, and has been employed in the offices of the Prudential Insurance Co. Mr. Senff, a graduate of a Chicago decorating school, has been displayman at the Warner & Edwards Co. store.

Jubilee's Pardner
A Story of Boyhood Adventure
BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN me and Jubilee woke up this morning it was one of the kind of mornings that makes a fellow think mud turtles and snakes and frogs will soon be out and it will be summer. A girl thinks the same thing only instead of snakes and mud turtles and frogs she thinks of roses and dogwoods and forget-me-nots, and of having picnics instead of running down a bank kicking her clothes off and seeing who'll be the first one into the river and hollering that the last one in knows what he is. Only girls don't talk that way.

I was laying there pinching Jubilee's ear and thinking that I wished there wasn't any cows and I could stay in bed a long time; and I thought of all the fellows that don't have cows to milk, and one of them was Podgeen Dooley, and then I sat up in bed like I had been jugged with a pin. 'Cause thinking of Podgeen made me think of St. Patrick's day and that was yesterday and I had forgotten all about it. And it was very funny that I had forgotten about it. I guess it must be because Podgeen was sick that time. Before that he used to always bring his gang up from under the hill looking for a fight on St. Patrick's day. And you've got to give it to Podgeen that he always knew where he could find one. I certainly missed him, and that was what made me forget the day was the day it was, and that it was being a school holiday like it had ought to be. But that was all right with me. My uncle got shot twice in the window and busted it, so that I had to stuff a pillow in it. I don't use that one to let Jubilee down anyhow. I use the one between the houses on the other side.

When I let Jubilee down and had pushed myself into my short britches and went down and out to the barn no one was out there yet, and I found Feeble's algin hid back of the feed-box and hid it in another place, and when the bunch was there and Feeble and Maggie and Younis came, Feeble snookered around for a while, and then they went out to go in the house, and I pulled the gun out of the manger and showed it to the bunch, and he looked out through the crack in the door and Maggie had stopped and stooped over by the step to the shoe, and he cracked loose at her and she howled and jumped so high she knocked Feeble off the top step. I was going to paise Red, but I remembered that Maggie is his sister, and if a fellow can't shoot his own sister who can he shoot. Feeble told me I ought to be ashamed of myself and when I looked innocent and asked her why she said because I was a boy. Hub I'd be ashamed of myself if I wasn't. Banty wasn't in school. His mother sent word that he has got a temperature; which is a little glass thing to hold in a fellow's mouth. I'm sorry.

"Heart of a Wife"
BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian, Remembering Her Outburst Prompted by Her Husband's Criticism of Marion, Hesitates to Ask His Advice.

WITH a sudden rush of memory, I knew the reason for the oddly hesitant look in Lillian's eyes as she answered "I don't dare" to my query as to her asking her husband about the advisability of Marion's going to the Buxton's house today. Because she was nervous and overwrought, she had flamed out at her husband most unjustly, when, angered at Marion's garrulity to her "roomie," Carolyn, concerning the secret of the locked box, he had said that Marion should never see Carolyn again.

"You have no right!" Lillian had flamed, and I had seen her big husband wince as if she had struck him, as indeed she had—a cruel, lashing blow which I guessed had left wells upon the sensitive nature which lay beneath the big man's bluff demeanor.

Needed Bracing Up
She had sobbed out her horrible-remembered remorse the next instant, remembering Lillian's infinite tenderness and care for the step-daughter who had repulsed him for so long, but who now gave him the fealty of a loving daughter, and later she had atoned royally by her insistence upon going with him to investigate the supposed deadly bomb which the pseudo bank robbers had thrown on the lawn in front of the house. But even though that moment I was sure, had erased even the memory of Lillian's injustice to her husband's mind, she herself could not forget what she had said, and she dreaded his reaction to a query from her as to advice concerning her child.

"That is not like you," I told her. "I've never known you to fail to face things before."

I had applied the rowel deliberately and was rewarded by the sudden stiffening of her body and the throwing back of her shoulders. "Thank you, old dear," she said. "I sure needed that. And I'll ask Harry about this as soon as I can get hold of him."

A "Protective Thrill"
"He'll be with Junior and Rod orick," I reminded her. "You know ever since that Chinese messenger brought us that threat, Dicky, or Harry and my father have literally stood watches over the children."

"I know," she nodded, then rose and walked to the edge of the veranda, looking down upon the lawn below.

"He's down there under the shade of the big tree, telling them stories," she said. "I'll go into my room, he can hear me most easily from there, and I won't wake the baby as I might if I spoke from here. I'll ask him to park the boys with your father and come up."

She wanted me with her when she first broached the subject of Marion's invitation to her big husband, and I felt an odd, little protective thrill as I watched her go out of the door and down the hall into her own room. It is so seldom that Lillian betrays any need of anyone outside her own resourceful self that the experience of having her depend upon me is quite exciting.

She was back in a minute and gave a satisfied little nod as she sat down.

"I'll be up in a jiffy," she said, "and your father's taken over the job. Those kids are sure chaperoned better than any sub-dubs on Park Avenue."

"I know," I said dreadingly. "And I wish this Chinese menace was over. It's like being in the dark, waiting for a snake to strike, and not knowing from which direction it's crawling on you."

"Don't let it get you," she advised, "although you can't help it. She added honestly, "I'm feeling it, too. But of course there's no earthly use mulling over it. And there isn't a single man in the country that our bunch. They won't let any harm come to the children, you can bet on that."

"I don't know what you're bawling on, Lil," her husband drawled from behind her, "but remember your weakness for deuces wild."

"Just for that slam, I won't repeat the sweet names I was just calling you to Maggie," she told him, and with a hurried, reproachful look at her, he walked past us to the front of the veranda where the baby was sleeping. I knew "by the cut of his jib," as Mrs. Ticer says, that he was "up to something," and watched him with misanthropic anticipation as he struck the attitude of an orator before

ERROR LOOMS IN KENTON ARRESTS

Attorney Will Ask That Cases Be Heard in Justice's Court.

Special to the Star
KENTON, March 18—A legal controversy loomed today following the action of Justice of Peace E. D. Balliett of Kenton in connection with four liquor cases.

The four defendants of Kenton and Ada pleaded not guilty to liquor charges when arraigned before Justice Balliett. He has bound them to the grand jury.

Attorney Foster E. King of Kenton, who represents U. A. Kizer and C. S. Wilcox, said that the grand jury has no jurisdiction in liquor cases and that he will ask Judge Hamilton E. Hoge to remand the cases to Squire Balliett's court. The justice of the peace then may transfer the cases to probate court or common pleas court for hearing, he said. Byron Johnson and Ed Smielau of Kenton are the other two men who were bound over to the grand jury on liquor charges. Justice Balliett, prior to binding the four to the grand jury, had overruled three motions of Attorney King to transfer the cases to probate court. King pointed out decisions proving his contention that a justice of peace court has no jurisdiction.

TARKINGTON STORY, "FATHER'S SON," ON SCREEN AT OHIO

Lewis Stone and Irene Rich Play Leading Roles in Picture.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S story of a man who succeeded as a husband but failed as a father, has been brought to the screen as "Father's Son," and will play at the Ohio Thursday through Saturday. The son will be played by Leon Janney, the boy who did so remarkably well with his roles in "Old English" and "The Doorway to Hell." Irene Rich, one of the picture's actresses, of the understanding mother Lewis Stone plays the father.

Tarkington's stories are family stories. Anyone can sit down and enjoy his "Penrod" stories, and "Father's Son" is a story with the same family background.

Eight-year-old Robert Dandridge, a little colored boy, plays the role of Vestibule Pullman Thompson. He has appeared in almost 100 pictures during the six years he's been working in films.

Atley Bennett, another of the children of the screen, is seen as Junior Pettis. He was on the stage at eight months, and has been either on the stage or in pictures since that time.

Norman Foster, Skeets Gallagher, Eugene Pallette and Cate Lombard have the leading roles in the romance-comedy based on the Broadway stage hit of the same name.

Skeets is cast as the flip press agent who helps to lather the laughs in a soap business enterprise with Norman Foster, a son of a wealthy manufacturer.

Norman Foster studied journalism at Carnegie Tech, and was a reporter on the Richmond, Ind.

LEWIS STONE

Palladium for a time. Skeets studied engineering at Rose Polytechnic and switched to law at the University of Indiana. Frank Tuttle, director of the picture, studied to be a writer while at Yale. He was an assistant editor of Vanity Fair before he began his directing career several years ago.

Louise Brooks, who has been appearing on European stages for the last two years, returns to the screen in this picture. She was last seen as the Canary in "The Canary Murder Case."

JOAN CRAWFORD ACTS, DANCES IN PALACE PICTURE

Clothes Are Knockout in Talkie with Newspaper, Crime Background.

JOAN CRAWFORD

art of dancing with the art of acting in "Dance, Fools, Dance" at the Palace tonight and Thursday. The picture is entertaining, but have you ever noticed that picture after picture Joan crawls with the same features, the same wide eyes, the same tresses of her Auburn hair? But the poor "working girls" will rave and rant about her clothes. They're tailored to a T and how she wears them. There's one evening dress that's a trick sailor effect. Adrian designed all her clothes for this picture.

But to the story. Joan and her brother William Bakewell are left penniless after the market crash. They've been used to millions. Joan gets a job as a reporter and her brother chooses to join a bootlegging ring. Cliff Edwards, star reporter on the paper employing Joan and one of her best friends, is killed because he knows too much about one of the ring's dirtiest killings.

Joan is sent out to round up the murderer. Figure it all out for yourself. Joan does some good dancing that shows her training as Lucille LaVarde of the Folies. A Slim Summerville comedy, Edna Berns at the organ and a news reel complete the bill.

Explorer Will Give Talk On Radio Program

By Frank Moore Leased Wire.

SIR HERBERT WILKINS, famous explorer, will be introduced by Grantland Rice during the program which will be broadcast over the NBC-WEAF network Wednesday at 9:30 p. m.

It is expected that Sir Herbert will talk on his proposed trip in a submarine this summer to the North Pole.

Leonard Joy and his all-star dance orchestra will present the musical program of this broadcast, and Chester Gaylord is the featured vocalist.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers, screen star, will be interviewed on the program of the Musical Cocktail which will be broadcast Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. over the Columbia network. Louella Parsons, motion picture critic and writer, will act as his interrogator.

The fact that Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll, much better known as "Amos and Andy," never have been known to quarrel during their association in the last 12 years, is explained at last.

Each of the radio performers has a pet dog, two little wire-haired fox terriers. Andy's dog is named "Amos" and Amos's dog is named "Andy." Consequently, whenever either member of the team becomes irritated by the other, he can go home and "take it out" on "Amos" or "Andy" as the case may be.

BOSTON RED SOX DEPEND ON ROOKIES

COLLINS REFUSES TO PREDICT WHERE CLUB WILL FINISH RACE

Promising Recruits Hold Key to Success of Perennial Tailenders.

By The Associated Press.
PENSACOLA, Fla., March 18.—A sample of slugging rookie players, a young shortstop who might hit, and a pair of promising veterans salvaged from the wreckage of the rebuilding program in the Boston Red Sox.

The four athletes reported to the Sox by the new pilot—but the Sox star new comers are the Sox promise to hoist the Sox pennant, if such a feat is within the grasp of the Sox.

A New Shortstop
A. J. Marquardt, a sweet fielding shortstop who hit 324 for Nashville in the Southern, appears the prospect for getting more batting time in the field. It was the failure of the Sox to find a replacement for the injured Red Sox in the cellar.

Moore, one time world series hero with the Yankees, and "Lefty" Brillheart, a former Sox pitcher, are expected to add strength to an already capable mound staff. They are expected to fit in well with the veteran group, Milt Gaston, Dan MacFarland, Ed Morris, Horace Lister and Jack Russell. All five pitched good ball last year.

Infeld Named
Bill Sweeney, who batted for the Sox last year, at first, the veteran Sox pitcher, at second, Marquardt at short, and Jack Rothrock, a veteran outfielder, at third, form a tentative infield that has been favored by Collins.

Marquardt takes over short, and will have to beat out the weak young Hal Rhyne, who had the Sox last year, and Harold Vasteler, another indifferent clubber. Muddy Ruel, Marshall and Creeden are a quartet of youngsters seeking their berths.

Collins finds the club well fortified with a prospective outfield in Earl Walsh, the only regular of last season to play over 300. Tom Oliver and Russell Scarritt, who hit .293 and .289, respectively, are the other outfielders.

scoring guns of the Company B soldier boys and trounced the Infantrymen without particular difficulty. Company B trilled throughout the game.

Martel and Prospect struggled through four periods of fast basketball with neither team holding much of an advantage at any time. The lead changed hands constantly. Martel finally flashing a scoring spree in the closing minutes to take the largest lead of the game and win 29 to 23.

Prospect banged away at the net from long range all through the first two frames with little success but changed to a passing game in the second half and gave Martel a tough battle before succumbing. Walnor played a good game for Prospect while honors for the winning team were about evenly divided.

A Tough Game
Green Camp and Waldo put on the most furious contested battle of the four games. UNTIL THE FINAL PERIOD of play neither team held more than a two point advantage at any time. Waldo scored twice in quick succession late in the fourth period to give them a three point lead but Green Camp rallied and quickly cut down the advantage.

Green Camp's brilliant forward, Porter was held to three points. Harvey Strine of Waldo, Welas and Frank Furniss of Green Camp played a bang up game for the winners. The Strine brothers of Waldo turned in the best performances for the losers.

In the class D division last night the Y Pioneers defeated St. Mary's 17 to 11. In class C the results were as follows: Musketeers 19, Greenwood 10; Central Pioneers 8, Waldo Tigers 6 and Vernon Junior High 42, Waldo 12.

SILENT!
Rockne Declines To Talk; Fears Overemphasis Charge.
By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 18.—Talk of overemphasis in football has made a silent man out of the one and only Knute Rockne.

When a reported spied the famous Notre Dame coach in Chicago this week, he rushed up to find out the reason.

"I came up here to buy a football," Coach Rockne said, "and I'm going back to South Bend to show it to the boys later this week. I'm not going to speak above a whisper during spring practice lest I get accused of overemphasis."

A Promising Slab Artist

Spring training is in full swing and there's a broad smile on the genial pan of Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians, as he watches young Wesley Ferrell hurl fast ones, and sharp-breaking, curving ones or tantalizing slow ones down the alley. For Roger Peckinpaugh believes he has one of the greatest pitchers in the league—at least one whose record has placed him in the starring class inside the brief span of two years.

Although Ferrell's pitching record was somewhat hampered by bad early season starts, he wound up his two seasons with spectacular records. In his first season the Indian star pitcher achieved 21 victories and suffered 10 losses. Last season he increased his victories to 25 and lost 13 games. Thus, in two consecutive years, the young hurler has 46 victories to his credit, something which Lefty Grove alone has rivaled.

Cleveland officials were troubled for a while by Ferrell's early refusal to sign his contract. Last year, you will recall, he was a holdout for some time and this affected his work in the first two months of the season. Anyhow, he has signed on the old dotted line now and is training diligently.

There's a good sign of plenty of keen interest in the battle for pitching supremacy between Grove and Ferrell. Grove gained 28 victories and lost only five games last season. The two stars had no occasion to meet each other during that season, but are expected to engage in several duels before the upcoming diamond festivities have been brought to a close.

The meteoric rise of the Tribe's star warrior was so amazing to baseball experts that they are comparing his feats with those of Matthewson, Johnson, Waddell and other immortal men of the mound. And, if the young man continues his pace, doubtless he will step up to his place beside them.

National Circuit Holds "Grapefruit" League Lead
By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 18.—The Philadelphia Athletics may be champions of the baseball world during the regular season but they're just "cousins" to other clubs now playing the "grapefruit" circuit in Florida, California and other training camp states.

There's just a possibility that Connie Mack and his title-holders prefer to hold their fire until it counts.

Be that as it may, the champions have won only three games out of eight in the spring training exhibition program and the American league might well be in a bad way in its competition with the National were it not for the New York Yankees.

The Yankees have won six games out of seven with National league opponents and thus enable the American league to show a slight margin over the older circuit in games played so far. The actual count is nine victories for the American against seven for the National. The St. Louis Cardinals have helped the National's cause by whipping the Athletics three games out of four.

In games of all descriptions, whether against major or minor league opposition, the Cleveland Indians set the pace with five consecutive victories all against New Orleans of the Southern association.

HAPPENINGS IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

By The Associated Press.
PENSACOLA.—Acting on advice of coaches, Eddie Connelly, Boston Red Sox catcher, has switched his batting activities from the right side of the plate, where he enjoyed but mediocre success last season, and is whanging the ball with extreme gusto from the port side.

NEW ORLEANS.—Eddie Morgan is the kind of a guy who can make two positions automatically stronger just by walking into camp. Regardless of whether the erstwhile prodigal or Lew Fonseca plays first base for the Cleveland Indians, there will be nothing to worry there, and now Bob Seeds can forget about understudying Fonseca and go back to the outfield where he belongs.

TAMPA.—The Cincinnati Reds have obtained first baseman Sherlock from the Philadelphia club to send to Hollywood of the Pacific coast league as part payment for Mickey Heath, also a first baseman. The refusal of Bat Crawford, who originally figured in the deal, to report to Hollywood, made the acquisition of Sherlock necessary.

SAN ANTONIO.—Even with Bill Terry safely in the training camp, John McGraw is going to have lots of trouble keeping Leslie out of the New York Giants' lineup. Sam has been the Giants' first baseman in Terry's absence and has rapped out three doubles, three singles and a triple for a .300 batting average so far.

BRADENTON.—Chick Hafeys' thriftiness today caused Manager Gabby Street to start a search for a capable left-fielder with a punch in his bat. Chick is demanding $15,000 for 1931, which President Sam Breadon says is too much.

YOUR HAT FOR SPRING WEAR

EL PRODUCTO!
Different!

Your taste will tell the difference—your real enjoyment will back your taste.

EVEN the sedate Homburg and the dignified Derby show a disposition toward dapperness that hasn't been expressed in headwear for many years. This, no doubt, is in line with the endeavor of man to present a more colorful appearance this season—an effort to get away from the sombreness of winter completely. And, of course, this spirit is definitely carried out in the new snap brims and telescope shapes.

The SNAP BRIM—

THIS is the shape that promises to win greatest favor this season, due to the fact that the brim can be manipulated and shaped to suit the wearer. The younger fellows will wear this hat with brim turned down all around.

The HOMBURG—

In this hat you will note the more defined curl to the brim; a slightly higher crown and a noticeable ridge, which gives it a completely new appearance of a new age. All the wanted charm and dapperness of the Homburg are shown.

TELESCOPE—

This shape which has been in vogue for some time, is now again, but with a new twist. It shows you will see a new shape, with a shorter crown and a more pronounced brim.

HAPPENINGS IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

By The Associated Press.
PENSACOLA.—Acting on advice of coaches, Eddie Connelly, Boston Red Sox catcher, has switched his batting activities from the right side of the plate, where he enjoyed but mediocre success last season, and is whanging the ball with extreme gusto from the port side.

NEW ORLEANS.—Eddie Morgan is the kind of a guy who can make two positions automatically stronger just by walking into camp. Regardless of whether the erstwhile prodigal or Lew Fonseca plays first base for the Cleveland Indians, there will be nothing to worry there, and now Bob Seeds can forget about understudying Fonseca and go back to the outfield where he belongs.

TAMPA.—The Cincinnati Reds have obtained first baseman Sherlock from the Philadelphia club to send to Hollywood of the Pacific coast league as part payment for Mickey Heath, also a first baseman. The refusal of Bat Crawford, who originally figured in the deal, to report to Hollywood, made the acquisition of Sherlock necessary.

SAN ANTONIO.—Even with Bill Terry safely in the training camp, John McGraw is going to have lots of trouble keeping Leslie out of the New York Giants' lineup. Sam has been the Giants' first baseman in Terry's absence and has rapped out three doubles, three singles and a triple for a .300 batting average so far.

BRADENTON.—Chick Hafeys' thriftiness today caused Manager Gabby Street to start a search for a capable left-fielder with a punch in his bat. Chick is demanding $15,000 for 1931, which President Sam Breadon says is too much.

YOUR HAT FOR SPRING WEAR

EL PRODUCTO!
Different!

Your taste will tell the difference—your real enjoyment will back your taste.

EVEN the sedate Homburg and the dignified Derby show a disposition toward dapperness that hasn't been expressed in headwear for many years. This, no doubt, is in line with the endeavor of man to present a more colorful appearance this season—an effort to get away from the sombreness of winter completely. And, of course, this spirit is definitely carried out in the new snap brims and telescope shapes.

The SNAP BRIM—

THIS is the shape that promises to win greatest favor this season, due to the fact that the brim can be manipulated and shaped to suit the wearer. The younger fellows will wear this hat with brim turned down all around.

The HOMBURG—

In this hat you will note the more defined curl to the brim; a slightly higher crown and a noticeable ridge, which gives it a completely new appearance of a new age. All the wanted charm and dapperness of the Homburg are shown.

TELESCOPE—

This shape which has been in vogue for some time, is now again, but with a new twist. It shows you will see a new shape, with a shorter crown and a more pronounced brim.

FILES BRIEF IN BANK CASE

Receiver of Galion Institution Claims Right To Act in Suit Against Directors.

Special to The Star.
GALION, March 18.—A. E. Evenson, receiver of the Citizens National bank of this city, filed a reply brief, today, in Federal court, Cleveland, in the case of Miss Mary O. Volk versus E. Casey, G. I. Stiefel, F. W. Faber, E. F. Kloppe and E. J. Bachelidor, as directors of the bank.

In the brief, the receiver denies that the question as to who is the real party in interest in this suit was determined while this action was pending in the state court.

The hearing of this action will determine the right of the receiver to conduct this case as the sole plaintiff. If successful, Miss Mary O. Volk will be eliminated from the law suit. It is the contention of the receiver that he is representing the government, and as such, he has the sole right to bring such action and that action brought by Miss Volk is an unwarranted interference with his duties as receiver.

Mr. Evenson reports that the stockholders' assessment levied by the controller of currency, which was due March 12, 1931, was responded to by very well and he reports that the collections were quite successful. Arrangements with the stockholders have been made for early payment which will be a great benefit to the creditors.

After seizing her at a downtown street corner the six men took Miss Chavez to the Los Angeles river bed and there branded her with the needle heated by electricity from storage batteries, she told police.

Here's Selection of Footwear for Every Occasion

"Do you want to take a walk?"
For daytime wear the pump, the one strap shoe or the oxford is smart. But it must be simple. If it's an oxford or strap slipper it may have perforated trimming. Pumps are all leather, or suede and leather combinations.

For afternoon the lizard and snake wriggles in He comes gently, but nevertheless he's there weaving his way in a simple line around the shoe. Reptile trim is very, very fashionable.

The simple buckled pump is charming for evening wear. A tiny line of gold or silver kid piping gives an exquisite touch. Many of the evening slippers have silver and golden heels. If you're a little timid about dancing in pumps, wear a one strap slipper; straps are graceful, especially the dainty little ones which are being shown in such profusion.

J. F. Bomiller spoke briefly in regard to the high school commencement which will be carried out on the centennial basis. F. E. Cook was also present at the meeting and told of his recent motor trip to Florida.

"What to Wear" Problem Solved for Spring Days

EVERY spring has its problems, but they are nice ones when they relate to fashion. The solutions are magnificent this season with a tremendous number of correct results.

For street or office wear nothing is quite as gay as a silk print with a floral motif. The frock must be touched up with intricate dressmaker details, daring little bows peeping out at odd angles, on the sleeve, the waist, or neck. In fact, a bow's good most any place. Light tones and plums are equally important, for they lend the casual touch which gives a really inexpensive dress a "custom made" appearance.

There are all sorts of absurdly beautiful frocks in lace and slightly stiffened chiffon. Odd shades that are neither pastel nor bright, but manage to achieve a fascinating "in-between-ness." Many of the costumes have cocktail jackets with flowing three-quarter length sleeves and a flaring peplum. The hemlines are quite often jagged affairs, but then, you'll find quite a few even ones. Both are equally fashionable.

Sweaters Come Back Into Style
The sweater is with us again after a whole year's absence. But it was worth waiting for, since it has returned in many new and interesting variations.

Patent leather shines as a highlight for spring. But it has changed its black winter coat for one of pastel blue, pinks, blues, yellows and greens, with each other in the new narrow belts, and correspond with the latest Parisian patent leather bags.

Polo coats will be fitted as before, but a new detail has been added, or rather, omitted, namely, the belt. The light tones remain predominant with white and a very light egg-shell added to the list.

Council Asks That Architect Be Chosen from Home Town.

Special to The Star.
BUCYRUS, March 18.—Arguing that Bucyrus' own architect should be given consideration in preference to an out of town architect, city council in regular session Tuesday night refused to approve the agreement between the Hospital commission and Thomas D. McLaughlin, Lima architect, for compensation in the sum of five per cent on the total contract for the construction of the new municipal $100,000 hospital.

After striking the name from the contract the council body gave their approval to the terms of it on the five per cent basis.

Council indicated that further steps would be taken in an effort to secure an application for the contract from the local contractor.

At a meeting of the hospital commission Tuesday afternoon plans were submitted by the Bucyrus Academy of Medicine of which Dr. A. G. Arnold is president, outlining various features were recommended for a modern hospital building.

HILL'S Cascara Quinine Compound
People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The W. C. T. U. is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a will.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

Spring Shopping Market Offers Many Attractions

Lowered Prices and Opportunity To Help Increase Employment Provide Convincing Argument for Supplying Dress Needs.

If ever women needed excuses for dressing well, they undoubtedly have them this year, from the standpoint of economy and from the even more admirable one of helping humanity. Take it first from the view of economy. Never before has apparel of every kind been available at the low prices you will find at the advertising today or any other day will convince the most skeptical of that. The most exclusive shops, shops that have always maintained fixed prices for certain items, now advertise something like this, "For the first time in our history we are offering at a new lowered price." And this is only one example of the many convincing proofs of a new economy.

Women March to Duty
In the interest of humanity, it simply becomes a duty to buy new clothes. Every woman who can afford to buy a new garment and still decides to wear her old one is helping to keep people out of jobs. That situation has been explained so many times in the past months that every thinking woman knows just how it reacts.

Madame doesn't buy. Salespeople are dismissed. Manufacturers' orders are curtailed. Garment workers are thrown out of work, and so on and so on down the line until actually comes back to Madame's own income being affected.

But spring has brought a new promise of prosperity. We are starting out with new conditions that indicate better things for all. So when it is such a pleasant duty as the one of dressing well, what woman with the slightest pride in her appearance, will not be only too willing to do her part?

Opportunity and Test
The ease with which she may gratify her desires for pretty clothes this year will be both an opportunity and a test to every woman. An opportunity because the low prices will permit her to buy more than she has felt it possible to buy before, a test because so many beautiful things are within her reach that she will be tempted to buy indiscriminately just because things appear to be, rather than because they are the things she needs to build up a perfect wardrobe.

Without careful consideration, she will be falling in true economy . . . economy to herself.

Know Your Own Needs First
So the first bit of advice offered to prevent the mistake of buying judiciously in this—study your needs. Think of the life you are going to live this summer, your social activities, your real requirements. If you are going to summer in the country your greatest need will be for clothes of the outdoor type, rather than a whole bevy of fragile afternoon costumes, he they ever so flattering, be they ever such a bargain.

For Timely Fashion Hints
To begin with, the newest smart this summer is contrast . . . smart, postmodern combinations of fabrics and colors; a plain colored tulle jacket over a printed dress; a plaid collar and belt with a black dress; a dark-colored jacket with a striped skirt; accessories carefully selected to be an accentuating note.

The frock with separate jacket in a variety of forms is a leading fashion and there is nothing more suitable or becoming for a smart day in town; nothing more practical and dignified for the office hours of a business woman.

There are silk frocks with matching jackets; printed frocks with plain jackets; skirt and jacket with contrasting blouse, all equally fashionable.

The jackets often have three-quarter sleeves to show the long sleeves beneath. You will make no mistake in confining your choice of daytime dresses almost exclusively to a variety of jacket dresses.

The two-piece overblouse and skirt theme is also a popular and satisfactory daytime costume. It is apt to be finished with much button trimming (a favorite 1931 trimming touch) and a contrasting scarf of polka dot or plaid. Prints for daytime are largely plaid effects . . . used either as entire dress or as trimming.

Within all budgets this new era of prosperity, with its attendant vigour expressed in joyous, colorful fashions, and best of all the new economy that makes it possible for every woman to share in its beauty, is reflected in the offerings of our own merchants. A perusal of the advertising pages will point the way to the achievement of a tasteful, well balanced spring wardrobe that will be no strain on the most moderate income.

The steel industry also showed strength, with several issues advancing. The market closed at a high level, with many issues showing gains of 10 to 20 points.

PLAN SCHOOL ART DISPLAY

Arrange Schedule of Dates for Annual Event Here.

Plans for the sixth annual art exhibit in the public school were announced today by Miss Edith Keeler, supervisor of art in the schools. Dates for five schools have been set and other dates will be given out later.

Each grade building will have its own display of work done in the regular art classes. Miss Keeler is endeavoring to make the display the most complete in the history of the art department.

The displays will include studies in original expression, decoration and poster design, color theory and in the appreciation of beauty in art and nature. Examples will be shown of the enrichment of other studies through the graphic power developed by art study.

Patrons and friends not actively associated with the schools have been extended an invitation to view the work and all visitors above school age will be asked to register at each building visited.

Dates of exhibits announced are as follows: State Street, Friday night, March 20; Forest Lawn, Friday afternoon, March 27; Olney Avenue, Thursday night, April 16; Oak Street, Friday night, April 17; Mark Street, Tuesday afternoon, April 21.

NEW YORK—An American cowboy doesn't rate the gaucho of Paraguay very high. Returning from a cattle inspecting job, Francis W. James, of Sheridan county, Wyoming, spoke thus: "They don't know how to use a rope. They have ropes nearly 90 feet long and usually tangle themselves while the cow goes scooting."

SEA CLIFF, N. Y.—There's an epidemic of fractures in the Bell family. Albert Bell, Jr., broke one arm in an auto accident. His sister Constance broke one in a fall. Their grandmother, Mrs. Charles W. Bell, suffered a fractured vertebrae in a car crash. Then their father, Dr. Albert M. Bell slipped on a golf course and made it three broken arms.

THE NEW OLDSMOBILE IS FAST...you can TAKE THE LEAD and KEEP IT

The Four-Door Sedan

If you like speed, you'll thrill to the new Oldsmobile's performance. For, in addition to its time-tested features of stamina and dependability, Oldsmobile's rugged engine now has features which add new zest to driving.

New down-draft carburetion brings increased power—with higher speed and faster acceleration. You can take the lead in traffic...gaining speed swiftly and quietly with Oldsmobile's new Quiet Second Gear. You can hold your lead on the highway...running smoothly and quietly at all speeds because of features such as the new crankshaft balancer and the new carburetor silencer. A deeper, sturdier frame, an unusually low center of gravity, and more perfectly balanced weight combine to give the car uncanny roadability.

Oldsmobile's Syncro-Mesh transmission—a feature heretofore found only in higher priced cars—eliminates gear clashing. Shifting from low into second and from second to high can be done with absolute smoothness and silence. And the shift from high back to second—for a quick burst of speed in traffic—can be made with equal facility...and without reducing car speed.

If you haven't yet driven this new Oldsmobile, there's a real thrill in store for you. For the new Oldsmobile is the kind of performer that wins friends quickly...an alert, capable, and unusually fast automobile.

Thousand-mile jumps don't mean a thing to Chesterfield. It's the same fresh, good-tasting cigarette whether you light up in the north woods or in Hawaii! For what you taste in Chesterfield is milder, better tobaccos—nothing else—blended and "cross-blended" to bring out a flavor and fragrance you'll never find in any cigarette but Chesterfield.

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

Daily Proverb—"There is no piety in keeping an unjust promise."

The treasury department in Washington reports that 504 individuals in the United States
had incomes in 1929 in excess of $1,000,000.
There is no occasion for any of our local friends
to look self-conscious. None of them is located in this area.

A five-year-old London lad who several times had fallen from a bedroom window,
fallen into a canal, been knocked down at different times by a bicycle, a horse and a motor car, and never suffered a broken bone, fell
out of bed last week and fractured a collar bone. Life is like that.

The San Francisco district court of appeals
has held that a divorced husband can not legally be made to pay alimony after his divorced wife has remarried. If that decision stands, as it should, it is going to afford a world of relief to almost countless men victims
of alimony gold-diggers.

King Alfonso is being entertained by King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham palace
in London. At times we find it hard to take a lot of the anti-monarchical talk coming from Spain seriously; it's so greatly at variance with the seeming feeling of security manifested by the Spanish King.

Attacked by a buck, the life of an aged resident of Millford, Pennsylvania, was saved by his dog, which so fiercely attacked the deer
that it was glad to make its escape. It may be well to recall such items as this and other reports of human lives saved through the faithfulness of man's best animal friend when reading of the damage done by "sheep-killing"
dogs.

During the first nine weeks of the present
year, 213 persons were killed by automobiles
in New York City, an increase of thirteen per cent. over the corresponding period in 1930.
When people are killed at the rate of 100 a month in one city isn't it about time to give
a little less attention to the study of our needs
in war and a little more to contemplation of our needs in time of peace?

One hundred and ten construction projects
costing $79,455,934 were placed under contract
last week swelling the total of cost of contracts let since December 1 of last year to $781,810,726. Isn't it about time that such contract letting will begin to impress the public
thought with the feeling that the corner really
has been turned and that the country is on the road to recovery?

As a condition of calling a special session
of the legislature of Mississippi, Governor Theodore G. Bilbo has written the members of his two bodies demanding that they sign written pledges to vote for certain bills submitted to them by him if they favor such proposed measures and further written pledges to vote against all resolutions for investigations and impeachments. Looks as though the governor hopes to make himself another Pooh-Bah.

To Keep His Record Clear.

General Ubico, the newly-elected president of Guatemala, recently proposed to be placed in a position where he may be accused during his term or after it of having looted that republic's treasury. He has made a public declaration of all the real and personal property possessed by him in entering the executive office,
and he has announced that all his subordinates
must make similar declarations before taking office.

A recent predecessor of the present incum-
ent is reported to have amassed a fortune of $400,000 in the four days he held office before he was overthrown, and the immediate predecessor of the latter is said to have cleared up $5,000,000 during his term in the presidency. In any event, both are enjoying lives of financial ease in Paris.

The move of the newly-elected Guatemalan
president is said to be an innovation in Latin America. So far as we can recall it is an innovation without territorial limit. Admittedly it indicates past conditions which do not speak
well for official honesty in Guatemala, but this is all the better reason for the innovation.
Happily, there never has been occasion, so far as we can recall, for even so much as a suspicion of treasury looting on the part of any high federal official, but such declarations,
the facts thereof established by exhibits, would certainly prove mighty disconcerting to some of the country's municipal officials and employees were they faced by them at this time. By ray of illustration, it would be mighty embarrassing to some of those connected with the New York City government and now under fire to be asked to explain where they made the difference between the wealth set out in such declarations at the time of taking their jobs and the wealth they possess now.

But let us not be inhumane. Tamm-may is having enough trouble, as it is.

Governor White Uses Veto Ax.

Governor White is to be commended for vetoing the bill to license civil engineers and surveyors by which a further strangle hold
was to have been gained on the public.

The bill, of course, set out that it was "in the interest of public welfare and for the better protection of life, health and property
by the regulation of the profession of engineering and land surveying," but any one who had opportunity to read it would not experience
much difficulty in discovering that its real purpose was to hold up the public and at the same time create more state jobs—another popular hold-up proposition. In the light of the governor's veto, the prospects for the enactment into law of something like fifteen or twenty other measures which would create licensing boards and regulatory bodies are not overly bright—such bills as those offered for the licensing of undertakers, barbers, architects
and beauty shop operators. Nobody can well claim that any of these measures would improve the work of those engaged in these lines,
but every one of them would create more jobs
and one of them would increase the cost alike
of living and dying.

The bill provided that, after the first day of July, 1932, it shall be unlawful for this state or any county, city, village, township,
school district or any other political subdivision
of the state to engage in the construction of any public work involving engineering within the meaning of this act unless plans, specifications and estimates had been prepared and approved by and construction supervised by a registered professional engineer, provided that nothing in this section should be held to apply
to any public work wherein the contemplated
expenditures for the completed project did not exceed $500.

"By the terms of this section," the governor
stated in his message, "a country school board
which desired to erect a coal house to cost $225 would be acting illegally if it ordered a carpenter to construct the building without having plans, specifications and estimates prepared by, and construction supervised by a registered professional engineer. Taxpayers' suits
would multiply under this section."

The governor also condemned the provision which constitutes the common pleas court of each county as an appellate body, with power
to review not only points of law but the fact
finding and discretionary actions of the board.
The state of Ohio, or rather the people
thereof, are already bearing outrageous tax burdens. One might think that it would be the chief aim of those who send to the general assembly to work for the lightening of these taxation burdens. It may be the aim of some, yet the result is that another element is forever proposing measures which will increase the tax burdens being borne and, for some reason, the latter class seem to be more successful in putting bills through than the former. At any rate, the cost of government steadily advances.

Federal agents charge that, every time they start out on a raid in Lebanon, Pennsylvania,
factory whistles are blown and bells tolled to give the hotels and speakeries notice. We take it that the citizenship of Lebanon is not 100 per cent. dry.

Last of the Wendels.

Ella V. last of the famous Wendel family,
never more will be seen exercising an athletic
poodle in the world's most expensive dog walk
in the rear of the Wendel mansion on Fifth avenue, New York City. Her death will release that squat, red brick structure to one of scores of concerns that have clamored for it for the last twenty years. The terms of John Gottlieb Wendel's will, demanding that the three sisters who survived him remain unmarried and to live in the mansion built by the testator, have been a constant source of exasperation to New York realtors.

"Buy but never sell real estate" was the slogan by which the Wendel family's vast fortune and an accompanying reputation for close-fisted parsimony were established. In the Fifth Avenue mansion there were no telephones, no electric lights, no newspapers and little sunlight. Dominated by their brother's strong will, the sisters' lives were confined to the narrow, unyielding boundaries of the mansion.

The size of the Wendel fortune, which will be divided among a number of charitable organizations, is undetermined, but it will be something more than $100,000,000. Speculating on the joy it might have brought, the bright
vistas it might have opened, and the good it might have done, one feels that the death of the last, lonely member of the family terminates a tragic family history.

Through a tip from a disgruntled employe,

sudden increase hereafter in the demand for

It is stated in Washington that Prajadhipok, the name of the king of Siam, who is to visit
this country next month, is pronounced Praj-
jaw-jok, with the accent on the second syllable. How much more interesting life becomes in the light of this knowledge!

Of course, Senator Norris may figure that if he can bring about Democratic success in the 1932 presidential campaign, the Republican party might turn to him four years later for
a favor.

It is estimated that New York City's taxicab
drivers received about $26,000,000 in tips in 1930, one and a half times the total passenger revenue reported by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, twice that of the Erie and five times
that of either the Reading or the Lackawanna.
Why wouldn't it be good business for the railroad people to sell or junk their lines and go to taxi driving?

Secretary Mellon's financing, thus far this month, has saved the country $15,700,000
through the reduction of interest rates of government securities. It would be interesting to have any critic of Mr. Mellon's administration of the country's finances cite a record of saving through interest rates by any secretary
of the treasury in the past which is even remotely comparable with that of the present
secretary.

THE FIVE-POWER (IM) PACT.

Editorial Opinion.

THE GOVERNOR'S DILEMMA.
In his welfare message to the general assembly the governor passes on to that body a very large and very intricate puzzle. To launch an adequate plan to bring penal and correctional institutions and hospitals up to date will require, according to closely-shaved estimates, $10,000,000 for the years 1931 and 1932. At the same time, because of a general decline in taxable values, the revenue of the state for 1931 and 1932 is likely to be approximately $10,000,000 less than the sum required for existing needs.

If these figures are reliable they mean that it is the $10,000,000 two-year improvement program it to be financed out of current revenue
it will be necessary for the legislature to find new tax sources to produce $20,000,000. This sum would balance the budget and finance the desirefully needed expansion of Ohio's prisons
and hospitals.

Where is the money to come from? In a previous message Governor White recommended the issuance of bonds to finance the long-term welfare program, to cost $25,000,000,
which is itemized in this new note to the legislature. "Certain undesirable features" of a bond issue, and the incipient condition of a bond issue, lead the governor to reopen
the question of how to pay the welfare bill, and to suggest that if there can be found "means
not inconsistent with sound principles of taxation" to balance the budget and provide money for the welfare program that should be used.

This may mean that the governor is subscribing to the idea of a special tobacco tax
or other forms of sales taxes to fill the state
treasury and build new prisons and hospitals and repair old ones. However, it leaves the question of what is "sound" taxation directly to the general assembly, and if that body is unable to agree on new sources of revenue, the governor again recommends a bond issue to be submitted to a vote of the people.

While Governor White now clearly leans toward the financing of the welfare program out of current revenues, his statement to the assembly is more a review of a difficult situation than a recommendation. He tells us that seemly in effect to take its choice between two possible methods of financing, and inasmuch
as there are few alchemists and no magicians
in the legislature, either horn of the governor's dilemma is likely to be sharp.

Governor White's pronouncement that Ohio
must eliminate some of the causes of prison
crowding, and enlarge its probation and parole
systems; that it must not hopelessly resign itself to a continued and everlasting building
program, should be taken to heart by the general assembly. Bills now before the legislature would act to reduce our prison population and to prevent future increase at the present alarming rate.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A REVOLT OF DECENCY.

The former head of the black-hand squad of the New York police department, who addressed a meeting in this city last week, said
of gang domination:

"Good citizens themselves are responsible for the condition. They think their responsibility in election day. Gamblers and racketeers get together and elect their own candidates, and those candidates do what is 'right' for the men
who put them into office."

Although the truth of this statement is as old as representative government, we can not have it repeated too often or too forcefully.
Crime and corruption will continue to raise their ugly heads in our midst until human nature undergoes a radical change. They will dominate the government of any city whose good citizens go fishing on election day. As long as we elect our officials by ballot the element that casts the most votes will dictate
the sort of government under which we shall live. What many of our cities needs is a revolt of decency, which will turn out the rascals
that are bending their judicial and administrative offices to the purposes of the underworld.

The Danger of Mumps.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Have you ever noticed a child with a red flannel cloth wrapped around a swollen face
and neck? I need not say more, for you probably have guessed what I have in mind. I want to tell you about mumps.

Mumps is an infectious disease, causing swelling of the saliva-forming glands, particularly the one called the parotid gland. This gland is located just below the lobe of the ear. When it is swollen it gives the child that one-sided, pathetic picture so familiar in this disease.

In the beginning the child complains of pain
just below the ear. A slight swelling is noticed over the sore spot. The swelling increases gradually and within forty-eight hours the neck and side of the face are greatly enlarged.

Pain usually precedes the swelling. Movements of the jaw in talking, swallowing of food or chewing become difficult. Frequently there is earache and even slight impairment of hearing. These effects are usually temporary.

Close contact is required to spread this disease. Children are less susceptible to mumps than to other contagious diseases and only a small number of those exposed take it.

However, it is important that children should not be unnecessarily exposed. The complications which frequently follow mumps are most undesirable. Kidney diseases, nervous conditions, impaired hearing and in some cases deafness, have resulted.

During the height of the disease it is best to keep the child in bed. Special care should be given to the mouth. Alkaline mouth washes are used twice a day and the bowels are kept open. The diet should be a light one, consisting of fluids.

Since this disease is contagious it must be reported to the board of health. The officials will give instructions as to the methods of quarantine.

Do not consider this condition too lightly.
Above all, if your child has mumps, keep him
at home and do not permit him to play with others.

Eads, Master Engineer.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

When the deans of American engineering
schools select the leading engineers of all time, these two Americans out of the five:
Leonardo da Vinci, James Watt, Ferdinand de Lesseps, James E. Eads and Thomas A. Edison. Although the work of Eads is not so spectacular nor so epochal as that of the others, it represents the highest achievements of the era during which Eads flourished. The ironclad which he built helped to decide the issue of the war between the states, and inaugurated the era of the modern ironclad, already foreshadowed by the Merrimack and the Monitor. The superb engineering structure, the Eads bridge at St. Louis, represents the greatest engineering feat of that sort, up to his time. Into it were wrought the conquest of difficulties believed by many to be impossible to overcome.

In the realm of literature, we associate Mark Twain with the Mississippi river. In science,
and in particular, in the realm of engineering,
we likewise associate Eads with the "Father of Waters." Like Mark Twain, but in a pro-founder way, he studied the mighty river, with the purpose of learning it, both on and beneath the surface. As has been significantly said: "Eads was bred to the Mississippi, he mastered its secrets by hard experience, he worked in successful opposition to its great wayward forces and to some extent he conquered it."

James Buchanan Eads was born in Lawrenceburg, Indiana, on May 28, 1820. At the age of thirteen, in company with his mother and two sisters, he went to St. Louis. At first he worked as a dry-goods store clerk; and later, aboard a river steamer. The great river laid upon him its spell, and especially was he impressed by its destructive force. The many craft which were sunk as the result of its force; the degradation wrought by its violence; the need for salvaging the wrecks and for harnessing
the great force of nature received his closest attention and study.

The beginning of his career as engineer dates
from the time when he went into business with a firm of boat-builders. The duty which he allotted to himself was a study of the river,
with reference to the raising of sunken craft.
By his engineering skill and his inventive
genius, he succeeded in devising ingenious means for accomplishing his purpose. A stretch of 1,200 miles of the river was his field of study. He came to know this river and end, from top to bottom. He wanted to clean the channels of the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and Arkansas rivers, but he was unable to secure the passage of the bill through congress.

During the war between the states he built
eight gunboats which, under Admiral Foote, aided in forcing the upper Mississippi. Moreover, he built turreted gunboats, mortar boats and other vessels. Various inventions are credited to him.

The great bridge he built at St. Louis is his chief monument. It marked an era in bridge building. In 1884, Eads received the Albert medal awarded him by the British Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufacturers
and Commerce.—Copyright, 1931, International

War on Virginia Settlements.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

In 1763 Cornstalk, the Indian chief left the Scioto town at the head of a band of Indians
to destroy Virginia settlements. At Greenbrier settlement they were hospitably received
and, after a number of hunters having just returned with deer, but suddenly they turned on their hosts and killed nearly all the men and most of the children. Mrs. Archibald Glen-den, who was on the point of serving venison
to the warriors, turned at the sound of the tumult to see her husband and one child
killed and her husband escaped.

Joining another Indian band coming from another destroyed settlement, the Greenbrier
band started with the prisoners and booty for Ohio, but Mrs. Clendenin, determined to escape, took advantage of an opportunity to slip
out of line and darted, unobserved under a shelving rock. Fearful that she would be missed, and the Indians would search for her,
she hid in the depths of despondency when she heard footsteps above her head. Expecting a tomahawk blow upon her head, she finally ventured to open her eyes only to see
the face of a great bear, which took fright
and dashed away.

Finally, feeling that she was secure, Mrs.
Clendenin ventured into the night, and after nine days wandering managed to reach the Dickinson settlement. Months afterward,
when she revisited her old home in Greenbrier,
she found the meatfork and dish with which
she was about to serve the Indian warriors
when they fell upon the settlement and destroyed it.

Two of her children were carried away by the Indians into captivity—a boy and a girl.
The boy was killed, she afterward ascertained,
by the old Indian who had adopted him, but the daughter survived. After Bouquet's treaty
she was brought to Pittsburgh to be surrendered, but it was with difficulty that her mother was able to identify her.

Final check would show approximately 20 dead.

Between 118 and 124 survivors were huddled on Horse Island making the best of its meagre facilities and waiting for the rescue ships, Sagona and Foundation Franklin, with doctors, nurses and food supplies to take them off.

The more seriously injured were being cared for in the five huts of the winter colony while the others made themselves as comfortable as they could on the bleak, barren island.

The cause of the blast, which apparently hurled many to their death and sent scores of others over the side to escape the flames, has not been determined definitely. One possibility advanced to explain the explosion was that the boiler let go under a high steam pressure. The other was an explosion of blasting powder used to clear a channel in the ice.

the movement is not being run by any one person or any group to further any selfish purpose.

In one of the several talks of businessmen that followed Dr. Sawyer's talk, A. A. Van Atta, hardware man, asserted that Marion will come to its own with the aid of "unselfish organized effort."

Van Atta added, "Those three words hold much meaning for civic improvement."

Discussing Marion from the hardware man's viewpoint, Van Atta said the city's hardware dealers did not expect the boost Marion movement to solve the troubles peculiar to the hardware business only, but to deal with the troubles that affected the entire city, not one small group.

Grocer Speaks

How the Marion retail grocers have organized themselves, forming an association of 40 local groceries was told by C. Z. Zachman, grocer, as a sample of how Marion grocers are meeting their problems through cooperation.

Support of home owned businesses was also urged by Roscoe Mezger of Blandley Grocery Co. He declared that home merchants must "spruce up" their stores to successfully compete with the foreign owned stores.

Roy Garreau of the J. C. Penney Co. declared local chain stores are interested in Marion's welfare, asserting that 21 per cent of Marion's business is done in chain stores. "Other cities have the same problem," Marion has," he said. "To solve them, all must fight harder," he said.

"What's wrong with Marion is what's wrong with the individual," Millard Hunt declared, discussing Marion as it looks to a building supply man. Too much selfishness and lack of cooperation is hurting Marion, he said.

How Marion looks to garagemen was discussed by M. L. McDaniel of the McDaniel Motor Co., and William F. Orison, representing the Ford Motor Co. Much good could come from an auto dealers' association, McDaniel said.

Other speakers were Morgan Burke, J. A. Slanser and W. J. Gorton.

By The Associated Press.

Police said Vahn admitted raising the check, describing his act as "just a foolish stunt," due to drink. Vahn served 27 months overseas during the world war and was wounded four times.

BILL WOULD REDUCE STATE'S TAX SHARE

Senate Gets Proposal To Re-adjust Distribution of Gas Levy Revenue.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—Re-adjustment of the Ohio gasoline tax distribution to give counties, municipalities and townships a larger portion and lopping off from three to four millions of the state highway department share, was up to the senate today. The Secretariat's redistributor bill passed the house yesterday with but six dissenting votes.

The state's share of the last two cents of the four cent tax would be reduced from 80 per cent to 75 per cent and townships would receive an increase from 10 per cent to 20 per cent; cities from five per cent to 10 per cent and counties from five per cent to 11 per cent. The last two cents of the tax has been used for the purpose of constructing, widening and maintaining highways.

It was generally understood that the Democratic administration did not favor the bill but the minority in the house joined hands with the Republican majority in obtaining its passage.

Charles E. Justus, Columbus Democrat, was the only speaker against the bill. He told the house he believed the bill would take the money from "a single horse—the state—and place it in the hands of 4,000 bosses."

HOOVER VACATION TO COMMENCE TONIGHT

President Works on Last Minute Business Before Caribbean Cruise.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—President Hoover turned his attention today to completing last minute business before he departs tonight for a ten-day vacation in the Caribbean.

He will leave Washington after dark on an overnight trip to Hampton Roads, Virginia, where he will board the reconditioned battleship Arizona. The big ship will immediately sail for the Caribbean.

With him will be secretaries Hurley and Wilbur, Dr. Joel Boone, White House physician, Lawrence Ritchey, one of his secretaries, Colonel Campbell Dodge, military aide, and Captain Russell Tramm, naval aide. In addition there will be eighteen newspaper correspondents, and six photographers.

Among other baggage to be taken along is the now famous medicine chest. The president will have two of his regular "medicine ball cabinet" with him, and expects to get recruits from the ship's officers.

Mrs. Hoover decided she wouldn't have the discomforts of a battleship and expects to visit her son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., who is recuperating from an illness in Asheville, North Carolina.

Conferences with Governors Roosevelt of Porto Rico, and Pearson of the Virgin Islands, will be the only work done on the trip if the president has his way, which he probably will. Two days are to be spent in Porto Rico, and one in the Virgin Islands.

VETS' LOANS CREATE TREASURY PROBLEM

Government Faces Necessity of Raising 200 Million Within Month.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Demands of World War veterans for loans has thrust before the treasury the necessity of raising $200,000,000 in less than a month.

Likewise, Director Ijams of the veterans bureau believes that within a short time loan checks will be going out at the rate of 200,000 weekly, a sharp increase, as the new machinery limbers up with use.

Secretary Mellon announced yesterday a request by Veterans Administrator Hines for $500,000,000 to cover payments on 1,372,000 applications received to March 15. It had been estimated $300,000,000 would suffice, and 14 per cent treasury certificates were issued to get that sum.

Hines said, however, the half-bill would be needed by April 11. How the $200,000,000 will be raised was not announced.

The veterans administrator also told Secretary Mellon $1,000,000,000 would be required to pay all loans. He estimated 75 per cent of the $500,000,000 adjusted compensation certificate holders would take advantage of the opportunity to borrow half the face value of their certificates.

Hines asserted $800,000,000 would be required this week to meet loans and $100,000,000 weekly for the next three. Since congress overrode the president's veto and increased the borrowing value of certificates, loans have been granted 28,574 veterans for sums totaling $104,035,356.

OLD AGE PENSION PLAN GAINS POINT

Ohio House Committee Votes To Recommend Measure for Passage.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—The Goodwin-Blum bill proposing a pension of not more than $25 a month for persons past 70 years of age and having no other means of support, was a step nearer enactment today.

The house insurance committee last night voted eight to four to recommend for passage a compromise measure between two conflicting bills introduced by Representative William M. Goodwin, Democrat of Hamilton, and Martin E. Blum, Republican of Cleveland.

Under the bill, claims for pension would be made to the county departments of public welfare, or where no such department existed, to county commissioners, who would cause the claims to be investigated.

The cost of pensions would be shared equally by the state and county general revenue funds, and the cost of maintaining the system as proposed was estimated at $4,000,000 annually.

Ohio College Head Gives Modern Co-ed Rating Above Girls of Fifty Years Ago

International News Service.
ASHLAND, O., March 18.—Betty Ashland of 1881, at least in Ohio, is a better specimen of a woman physically than her descendant on the college campus today.
The firm conviction of Dr. F. Jacobs, president of Ashland college, who today released the results of his 50-year study, is that the modern co-ed is in physical vigor, that she weighs more, is taller and has a greater lung capacity and chest girth.
The ages of the girls measured were approximately 18 or 19 years.
Comparative Figures
In his analysis Dr. Jacobs used index figures, indicating for comparison the averages of the measurements. The figures are:
50 Years Ago Today
Weight 113.8 123.2
Height 159.5 161.6
Lung capacity 150.8 163.6
Chest girth 76.1 80.7
Results of Dr. Jacobs' half-century study of girls students at the five colleges disprove to a large extent the generally-accepted theory that the soft living of the modern age is detrimental to the health and vigor of the nation's youth.
The educator listed five reasons for his belief that the co-ed of today is a better woman, physically, than she was in the early '80s. They were:
1—College students are now coming from a different stratum of society than in previous years.
2—Improved high school training and physical education probably has had its effect on the physical condition of the co-ed.
3—General health conditions of all homes are better than ever before.
4—The general physical vigor of the families from whence the college students come probably is better than 1900.
5—More robust girls are now going to college because life appeals to that type more than ever before with the many forms of athletics in existence.
